DOG DAYS

HANNA-BARBERA

IT'S A CAT'S WORLD

As television producers, their first films featured—what else—a cat, cute little Ruff of The Ruff and Reddy Show. The series was an instant success.

For the popular Yogi Bear Show another famous cat was created. "Enter stage left" was the familiar line emanating from Snagglepuss, the mountain lion. He would scream other immortal lines such as "Heavens to mergatroid! The sky is falling!" Hammy Snagglepuss found ways to say things in a way that made him a distinctive cartoon character.

In The Quick Draw McGraw Show we met another member of the cat family, Snooper, the detective. Super Sleuth Snooper was assisted by an admiring mouse known as Blabber.

The king of the beasts could not be forgotten so Lippy the Lion was created to bring more roars of laughter from TV watchers.

Interest in cars prompted the creation of fast-moving Hot Rodder, the autocat in the Motor Mania series.

In fact, if a giant should happen to pick up the Hanna-Barbera building and turn it upside down to shake it real hard, it would probably rain cats and dogs.
